No investigation has been conducted by the FBI pertinent to your inquiry concerning the above captioned individual. However, a review of the files of this Bureau reveals the August 8, 1957, issue of the "Washington Post and Times Herald" contained the following article which may relate to the subject of your inquiry:

3d Prominent Italian
Red Quits Party

By Patrick Grosse

TURIN, Italy, Aug 7 - A revolt within the ranks of Italy's Communist Party broke into the open again today when author Italo Calvino accused its leader, Palmiro Togliatti, of "substantial conservatism."

Calvino was the third prominent figure in less than a month to resign from the Party for the same reason. A well known literary critic, Carlo Muscetta, resigned last week. Antonio Giolitti, a member of Parliament and a Communist leader from the Piemonte regions, resigned last month.

Calvino's reasons for resigning, like those of his two predecessors, were published in the Communist Party organ 'Unita' alongside a calmly worded rebuttal written by the paper's editors.

Italo Calvino

Calvino said he was quitting the party "together with many other comrades. I had hoped that the Italian Communist Party would take the lead in the international renewal of communism, condemning methods of exercising power which have been shown up as bankrupt and contrary to the interests of the people."

Instead, he said, the party had lapsed into "substantial conservatism," directing its attacks against "the so - called revisionists within its ranks instead of against the dogmatists."

(In the Communist vocabulary, a "revisionist" is one who advocates further 'de-Stalinization' or 'liberalization' or a Communist regime, and a "dogmatist" is one who sees a return toward the more autocratic and centralized rule of Stalin.)
