Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ)

A PCPJ press release dated March 1, 1971 described the PCPJ as being headquartered in Washington, D.C. and consisting of over 100 organizations which are using massive, non-violent, civil disobedience to combat racism poverty, repression and war.

On November 16, 1971, a first confidential source advised that the PCPJ in New York City (NYC) have recently moved to Room 527, 156 5th Avenue.

The "Columbia Daily Spectator," a student publication at Columbia University (CU), NYC, issue of November 11, 1971, contained the following advertisement of an affair to "Remember the War" to raise funds for the PCPJ and which is to be held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, NYC, on December 6, 1971.

Jimmy Breslin is a well-known author and columnist. N.Y.

The "Columbia Daily Spectator," issue of October 16, 1969, page 1, carried a news story under the heading, "Thousands Participate in Anti-War Moratorium-Classrooms Deserted During Day-long Protest." It reported on a protest demonstration held at CU on October 15, 1969, and stated that Jimmy Breslin, journalist, was among the speakers. Breslin was quoted as saying that the day's activities were a "wake for 40,000 kids who got killed in a place called Vietnam."

On November 26, 1962, [redacted]

[redacted] advised that [redacted] for "Esquire" Magazine attended the Eighth World Youth Festival at Helsinki, Finland, during D.C. N.Y. July 28-August 6, 1962. He described [redacted] as a member of the anti-Communist group from the United States (US) delegation. The anti-Communist group from the US spent their time with the neutral countries trying to block the Communist attempts to win them over.

On March 15, 1971, a second confidential source advised that at a National Steering Committee meeting of the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) held at NYC on March 13, 1971, it was learned that the name of [redacted] appeared on a list of sponsors from the field of "Arts and Letters" of the massive anti-Vietnam war demonstration at Washington, D.C. on April 24, 1971. labor unions, GIs, and the black community in the struggle to end US intervention in Southeast Asia through orderly and peaceful tactics.

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

Ill. N.Y.
Rennie Davis and David Dellinger are publicly known as leaders of the PCPJ.

On February 18, 1970, Rennie Davis and Dave Dellinger were found guilty in the US District Court, Northern District of Illinois, Chicago, Illinois, for violation of the Federal Anti-Riot Law for traveling in interstate commerce from outside the State of Illinois with intent to incite riots in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention in August, 1968. On February 20, 1970, they were sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined $5,000. On February 28, 1970, the US Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit,
Chicago, ordered them released on $25,000 bond.

"The New York Times," a daily newspaper published in NYC, issue of May 19, 1971, page 45, described Charles Mingus as the author of a new book entitled, "Beneath the Underdog," concerning his life as a great black musician.

On April 26, 1967, a third confidential source advised that Charles Mingus, an entertainer, was among the demonstrators who participated in a march and demonstration protesting the war in Vietnam from West 59th Street and 6th Avenue, NYC, to the United Nations Building, NYC, on April 15, 1967.

N.Y.
On March 6, 1968, a fourth confidential source made available information which disclosed that the Fugs, a musical group, were among the initial founders of the Youth International Party (YIP) and that [redacted]
Fugs, [redacted] YIP.

YIP

The YIP, also known as Yippies, is a loosely-knit, anti-establishment, revolutionary youth organization formed in NYC in January, 1968.

On August 13, 1971, a fifth confidential source furnished a list of persons on the Fund Raising, Cultural Events and Benefits Committee of the New York May Day Collective (MDC). On this list appeared the name and address of Tuli Kupferberg, 381 East 10th Street, NYC. (S) (u) N.Y. On November 16, 1971, a sixth confidential source advised that Tuli Kupferberg is the leader of a small musical group called the Fugs. This group for the most part perform musical pieces with erotic lyrics.

On August 19, 1971, the sixth confidential source advised that the New York (NY) MDC was originally organized in the Spring of 1971 to organize for and to participate in anti-war demonstrations in Washington, D.C. during the first week of May, 1971, which were sponsored by the PCPJ, and to conduct nonviolent civil disobedience activities during these demonstrations. During the summer of 1971, the NY MDC organized and participated in demonstrations in NYC against the war in Indo-China, racism and repression.

On November 16, 1971, the sixth source advised that the MDC no longer exists as an organization in NYC.

Norman Mailer is a well-known author.

N.Y. On June 30, 1950, a seventh confidential source advised that Norman Mailer was a "concealed" Communist. Source stated that a "concealed" Communist was one who does not want himself known to be a communist and who would deny membership in the Communist Party (CP).

On April 6, 1960, an eighth confidential source advised that Norman Mailer apparently was known by many individuals in the CP. Source further advised that from general conversation with individuals in the CP, it was assumed that Mailer was anti-communist and that apparently CP members did not like him personally or approve of his writing. Source indicated that the communists have indicated Mailer's writings were considered "disruptive" in nature.

Tennessee Williams is a well known playwright.

N.Y. The "Daily Worker," issue of August 6, 1950, page 9, column 4, reported that Tennessee Williams was among a group of "top show business and cultural names" who had assembled to speak on a radio show condemning the jailing of the "Hollywood Ten." The show was refused by the major networks.

The "Daily Worker" was an east coast communist newspaper. Its last issue was published January 13, 1958.

On January 5, 1949, a ninth confidential source advised that the so-called "Hollywood Ten" was a group of motion picture writers and directors subpoenaed before the House on Un-American Activities Committee in 1947 in connection with the Committee's investigation of communist infiltration of the motion picture industry. Each member of the group was held in contempt of Congress for refusal to testify as to whether or not he had ever been a CP member. Source stated that he was personally acquainted with all members of the group and knew all to be CP members.

October, 1963, he was arrested by the US Internal Revenue Service for refusal to pay taxes due the Federal Government. He was found guilty during May, 1964 and was placed on probation.

D.C. / V.A. / "The New York Times," issue of June 16, 1970, page 35, column 1, in a news story bearing the dateline of "Washington, June 15 (AP)" entitled, "17 Arrested at Pentagon During a 'Mass for Malcolm D. Boyd Peace'" reported that the Reverend Malcolm D. Boyd, author and Episcopal priest, led a group of demonstrators in prayer on the shopping concourse of the Pentagon during the noon hour of June 15, 1970. The demonstration was sponsored by the Episcopal Peace Fellowship. Seventeen anti-war demonstrators were arrested.

Ossie Davis is a well-known actor and playwright. N.Y.

During the latter part of 1963, a tenth confidential source advised that Ossie Davis was at that time a member of the CP, USA. (S) (u)

MARTIN DUBERMAN / "The New York Times," issue of June 15, 1964, page 1, in an article entitled, "New Role of Negroes in Theater Reflects Ferment of Integration" reported that Martin B. Duberman was the author of the play, "In White America" which was at that time playing at the Sheridan Square Playhouse in NYC. Duberman was described as of the white race and the play was described as an editorial and a record of the Negro's treatment in America. N.Y.

N.Y. / On July 6, 1970, an eleventh confidential source furnished an undated letter under the letterhead of the Committee to Defend the Panthers (CDP), NYC. On this letter the names of [redacted] Nat. Hentoff and [redacted] are listed as sponsors of the CDP. The letter was an appeal for funds for the CDP.

"The Black Panther," a weekly publication of the Black Panther Party (BPP), issue of June 20, 1970, stated that "The Committee to Defend the Panthers has been formed to raise funds for the legal expenses and inform the people of the BPP and their treatment by the government, courts and media." It said the CDP "is the only defense committee authorized by the BPP."

BPP

The BPP is a black extremist organization started in Oakland, California in December, 1966. It advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics to bring about the overthrow of the US Government.

"Who's Who in America," Volume 36, for the years 1970-71, page 71, identifies Jules Feiffer as a cartoonist writer, born January 26, 1929. N.Y.

On April 20, 1965, a twelfth confidential source advised that the New York Council to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee (NYCAHUAC) held a fund raising affair at the Square East, 15 West 4th Street, NYC, on April 11, 1965. The theme of the affair was anti-HUAC throughout and Jules Feiffer had written the "skits" for the affair.

The NYCAHUAC was formed in NYC on November 17, 1960. Its purpose was to work for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It was dissolved on December 15, 1965.

"Who's Who in America," 1970-71 edition, page 1604, identifies Paul Moore, Jr., as the Suffragan Bishop of Washington, D.C., 1964, Episcopal Church House, Mount Saint Alban, Northwest, Washington. N.Y.

"The New York Times," issue of August 18, 1967, Section VII, page 31, column 2, in a review of Susan Sontag's novel, "Death Kit" described Sontag as an author and literary critic.

On April 8, 1968, a fourteenth confidential source advised that in a report given on education activities to a closed membership branch meeting of the NY branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) held at 873 Broadway, NYC, on March 7, 1968, it was mentioned that Susan Sontag had attended entered an underground status and adopted a tactic of "strategic sabotage," with police and military installations designated as primary targets.

SDS

SDS was founded during June, 1962 at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960's functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the US. From a stance of "participatory democracy," the SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position. It maintained a national office at 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois, until February, 1970. Internal factionalism during 1969 produced three main factions: Weatherman, Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM) and Worker Student Alliance (WSA). The Weatherman and RYM no longer consider themselves associated with the SDS. The WSA faction continues to use the name SDS.

"The New York Times," issue of July 19, 1970, page 64, in a news story entitled, "Music Festival to Aid War Foes" reported that a 12 hour festival of rock and folk music would be held at Shea Stadium, Queens, NY, on August 6, 1970, to raise funds for senatorial and congressional campaigns of candidates who have been strong opponents of the war in Vietnam. The producers of the festival includes Sid Bernstein who brought the Beatles to Shea Stadium four years previously.
